

You can't study too much. It has to last a long time.

Thank you for your commitment to health & humanity! May all that Baylor has shared with you carry you joyfully forward in a journey of lifelong learning & caring!

Do what makes you happy. Be flexible and learn the business side of medicine like your life depends on it. If you feel like altering your career, do it. Develop whatever habits and routines will keep you from burning out and live in your truth.

Get ready for a life of challenges and rewards.

You have selected the most fun, interesting and rewarding career.

Congratulations on entering the most prestigious medical school in Texas!

Dedication through a few years of medical school and residency leads to a lifetime of impact.

Your personal growth and ability to give back to others will be precious!

Wear this white coat proudly but show humility with patients.

Congrats on the start of your journey! Baylor produces excellent physicians, and we are all looking forward to your accomplishments!

Conquer anxiety by knowing your strengths and weaknesses.

Just remember, medicine is a very rewarding lifestyle.

The days will be long, but the years will be short. Your BCM years will be transformational and cherished. The lessons I learned in that short coat will always be with me, and my future lifelong friends were too getting their coats alongside me.

Be Your Best. Think Positive.

Welcome to the Baylor family! As you start your training as a health professional, remember that while you've chosen a tough job, this career is a privilege, and you'll be training alongside brilliant folks who will become your best friends!

There are more uncommon presentations of common illnesses than common presentations of uncommon illnesses.

With this white coat comes great responsibility, never forget why you put it on.

Listen to your patients, and they will tell you what is wrong with them. The number 1 thing all patients want is to be heard.

Do the right thing.

Study hard. Stay focused. Become a true patient advocate.

Never stop learning and never stop listening to your patients. They are trusting you with their lives and all their secrets. When you see your patients. They are trusting you with their life and all their secrets.

Everything that the white coat stands for is consistent with our mission at BCM. With this coat comes great responsibility, and also great satisfaction. I can't wait to hear about the amazing things you will achieve at BCM.

You are the best!

Welcome to the profession of medicine! Each day you will experience new challenges and learn valuable lessons that you will carry with you throughout your career. Enjoy the journey, cherish the friendships you will make, and honor the patients you serve.
