The Office of Faculty Development provides professional growth resources and opportunities that enable Baylor faculty members to excel and advance in their roles across all mission areas of the College. Baylor's faculty development initiatives include institution-wide programs for educator development, educational research, coaching, teamwork skills and recognition of faculty excellence. Many of these programs are developed and offered in collaboration with other Baylor entities, such as the Office of Diversity and Inclusion, and the Center for Professionalism. Major components of faculty development are the College-wide faculty awards which recognize excellence in education and in patient care.

Early Career Faculty Award for Excellence in Patient Care

Outstanding Contributions to the Clinical Mission by Early Career Faculty

Established by President, CEO and Executive Dean Paul Klotman, M.D., in 2013, the annual Faculty Awards for Excellence in Patient Care honor outstanding contributions by Baylor faculty members to the College's clinical mission. Beginning in 2017, three categories of awards are now available to recognize excellence from up and coming (Early Career), mid-career (Star) and senior (Master Clinician) faculty members. The Early Career and Star Awards replace the Rising Star category, which was awarded in 2014-2016.

Faculty members involved in the direct care of patients, and in clinical areas such as clinical or translational research, patient safety and quality, clinical diagnostics and healthcare leadership are eligible for nomination. Applications are initiated by nomination and reviewed by a Selection Committee chaired by Dr. Biykem Bozkurt, professor of medicine and medical care line executive at the DeBakey VA Medical Center.

Please do not include any patient letters (current or historical letters, notes, cards or
