

Chromogenic development: more sensitive, easier to image

Fluorescent development: can do two or three probes, easier to combine with IF, can be imaged by confocal

